The Coronation Cup

Event History:

- First time played in 2023 to celebrate the Kings Coronation.
- 15 Teams entered, across three groups of 5, only mixed doubles matches was played
- Champions were Frank Odiase and Yeping Lu
- The tournament is part of the three Dan Slam Events.

2024

- 12 Teams will play in four groups of 3.
- A whole fixture against another team will include a Men's/Women's singles and a Mixed Doubles
- All matches will be 8 games long, meaning a draw is also possible.

Important Event Information

- Fun is at the centre of the day, please play fairly, ask when you don't understand things, arguments are not tolerated.
- I will court supervise matches where required, please help one another out, if for example a Women's Singles match is on, a Man who can be impartial can oversee the game.
- I will do my best to try and rotate everyone around as much as possible to ensure reduced waiting times between matches for each player. This is a tournament however, and naturally waiting for match play is going to be inevitable.

Important Format Information

What is the 8 games long format?

- Each fixture you play, singles or doubles, you will play 8 games, and only one set. This means regardless of the score you will play a total of 8 games each time you play. (In the knockout stages a tie break to 10 will be required at the end of the mixed doubles if teams draw 4-4 in the mixed doubles decider).
- Deuce and advantage rules are going to remain normal to traditional tennis. However, we must play at a good pace to ensure the smooth running of the event, please only use a maximum of 15 seconds in-between points from the moment the previous point has ended
- To reduce non playing time we are not changing ends after games.
- Score reporting, please make sure you report the score correctly at the end of the match, the score must be accurate.

How will the tournament work?

- Groups are made up of three teams (one team has a minimum of one man and one woman). And there are 4 groups.
- You will face the opposing two teams in your group once.
- Your team plays one Men's and Women's singles match and a mixed doubles against another team
- These results are combined and calculated to determine the top team in the group standings.
- The semi finals to final includes the top team from the group standings and follows the same match structure as the group stages

Important Event Information

- There will be lots of balls on court, please ensure your own safety by keeping balls away from areas you will cover during match play- this number of balls is intentional to try and help the flow of the tournament.
- Lines- In the situation where you do not have a court supervisor to help, you are responsible for calling the ball out on your side of the court. This must be in good time, and not called as an after thought in reaction to the shot you just hit.
- If you find to have a dispute, please raise it immediately, this approach is better than trying to sort it out with your opponent, as problems arise more as you debate for longer
- The serving player/team is responsible for keeping the score, please make sure you follow this otherwise time is wasted if we need to revert to the last agreed on score.

Photography notice & First Aid

- Photographs & Filming will be taken at the event, if this is a concern to you please raise it with me before the event begins.
- Photographs & Films are used for promotional purposes for Dan James Tennis
- I am the first aider onsite and there will be a first aid kit on site- by participating in the event you are agreeing that first aid may be administered upon you should it be necessary

Withdrawal

- In the event you can not make the event anymore, the cost of your entry is non refundable. The format I have made is very specific to the cohort of players entered. While I can not do anything to stop a withdrawal, please make note this will severely hamper the experience for everyone else.
